Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1500 on Thursday 20 May 2021

UK Outlook for Friday 4 Jun 2021 to Friday 18 Jun 2021:
Confidence is low for this period, which is usual during spring and early summer. Current expectations is that conditions will be predominantly dry, especially across the south and east. Less settled interludes are still possible, however, especially in the northwest. There are indications that temperatures will likely start recovering, moving more towards typical temperatures for this time of year. Settled conditions are likely to keep nights cool, but produce some warmer days.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.